The International Conference of Sustainable Production and Use (SCP) is a leading global forum for the exchange of knowledge and best practices on sustainable production and use. The conference brings together researchers, policymakers, industry leaders, and civil society organizations to discuss the latest advances in SCP and to identify opportunities for collaboration.

The 2019 SCP conference was held in Tokyo, Japan, and brought together over 1,000 attendees from around the world. The conference featured a wide range of presentations and workshops on topics such as:

- Circular economy
- Resource efficiency

- Environmental sustainability
- Sustainable consumption
- Sustainable production
